“The flute of Argentine Eduardo Tami plays in Beijing”

Tami will have the support of a Chinese pianist, a characteristic of the Argentine musician every time he goes out of his country. “I always travel alone and teach the style of tango to local musicians. In particular, I have met Chinese musicians who are very skilled and talented and who immediately learn to interpret the songs”, said Tami, who has toured his music in Indonesia, Malaysia, Thailand, Japan, among other countries.

“Argentine Trio Performs Cohesive, Expressive Set”

The Tami Tango Trio shattered expectations the moment it walked off the stage at the Cat in the Cream to roam through the audience while performing. This was just one in a series of spectacles that blended theatricality, expressive dance and traditional tango music during the Argentine ensemble's Sunday night show.

The trio is named after founding member Eduardo Tami, a distinguished flutist and composer. Pianist Leandro Marquesano has been playing with the group since 2010 and teaches piano...
